Which districts and schools are included in the Talent Together consortium?

Talent Together is a consortium of 48 Intermediate School Districts (ISDs) and Regional Education Service Agencies (RESAs) serving over 1.1 million Michigan students. All school districts and charter schools served by Talent Together ISDs and RESAs can participate in Talent Together. Visit www.MItalenttogether.org to see if there is a partner district near you.

Are non-school employees eligible to apply?

Yes, non-school employees are eligible to apply, though the consortium will prioritize applications from candidates who are currently employed by Talent Together districts and schools.

What is the cost to participants?

There will be no cost to apply or enroll in the program. All costs associated with the program including tuition, fees and materials will be covered for accepted candidates.

I am currently enrolled in another degree and/or teacher certification program. Am I able to transfer to a Talent Together program?

Application and Selection Process

When does Talent Together's application open?

The application launch for Talent Together's programming is pending review of the consortium's application for funding through the Michigan Department of Education Proud Michigan Education Grow Your Own grant. We are tentatively planning to open the application for our first cohorts in May 2023 for a fall 2023 program start timeline. If you are interested in applying to Talent Together, please submit an interest form and Talent Together staff will notify you once the application opens.

How are participants selected into the program?

Candidates will begin the selection process by submitting an application to the consortium. Talent Together Success Navigators will screen applications to ensure candidates meet the minimum requirements for at least one of the consortium's partner Educator Preparation Programs (EPP). From there, candidates will go through a rigorous, multi-phased selection process that includes submission of recommendation forms, a selection task and an interview. Once accepted into Talent Together, Success Navigators will support candidates through the application process to identify the Educator Preparation Program that best meets their needs.

What are the eligibility requirements for Talent Together?

Eligibility requirements vary by pathway and Educator Preparation Program. At a minimum, a candidate must have a high school diploma to be eligible for participation in a Talent Together program. Educator Preparation Programs typically have minimum grade point average requirements for admission into their programs. During the Talent Together application process, Success Navigators will also work with ineligible candidates to create a support plan that addresses gaps in eligibility (e.g., missing coursework).

If I am currently employed by a Talent Together school district, am I guaranteed admission into the program?

Talent Together's goal is to support current employees to find an appropriate, right-fit pathway into the teaching profession. Consortium-based Success Navigators will support candidates through the application process to help candidates identify the pathway and programs that are the right fit for each individual to increase the likelihood of acceptance. Because eligibility requirements vary by Educator Preparation Program provider, admission into a Talent Together program is not guaranteed.

Coursework and Mentorship

Who are Talent Together's Educator Preparation Program partners?

Talent Together is currently partnered with 10 colleges and universities located all across the state, including: Adrian College, Alma College, Aquinas College, Central Michigan University, Davenport College, Lake Superior State University, Northern Michigan University, University of Michigan - Flint, University of Michigan and Western Michigan University. The consortium anticipates expanding EPP partnerships in the future.

What if participants do not live near one of Talent Together's partner EPPs?

All Talent Together programs provide online or hybrid coursework options to ensure Talent Together individuals across the state can participate.

How will participants be trained, coached, and mentored?

Talent Together participants who are seeking initial certification will participate in a Registered Apprenticeship Program that uses a "learn and earn" model of preparation. Though course requirements will be based on the number of credits a participant has towards a bachelor's degree and will vary by the Educator Preparation Program, all candidates will have opportunities to earn credit for prior learning experiences and will earn credit for their work in school-based roles.

Talent Together participants will receive extensive supports from teacher leaders including job-embedded coaching. As participants demonstrate proficiency in program competencies, they will have opportunities for advancement, including financial incentives. During the final year of training, participants will become "Apprentice Teachers" and co-teach with experienced mentor teachers to demonstrate program standards before becoming fully certified.

What additional support will Talent Together provide to participants?

In addition to the job-embedded support outlined above, Talent Together participants will receive extensive, wrap-around support to ensure success in the program. Participants will co-create Michigan Test for Teacher Certification (MTTC) study plans that include enrollment in an MTTC prep course. Participants will be placed in cohorts to ensure they can develop meaningful and supportive relationships that increase individual engagement and success.

Applicants with diverse identities and life experiences are strongly encouraged to apply. Dedicated opportunities will be available to diverse participants to help build a sense of community, inclusion and belonging in the teaching profession and their schools.

During the final year of training, participants will be hired as Apprentice Teachers and will co-teach alongside experienced teacher leaders. At this time, participants will be required to resign from their previous roles to ensure they can meet the responsibilities of the Apprentice Teacher role. Candidates who choose to not pursue teaching positions after their training may apply for other roles within the district.
